The bill would amend the Social Welfare Act to appropriate to the Department of Social Services $15 million annually, to be used to fund alternatives to abortion. Abortion alternatives would include education services and programs supportive of a decision to have a child. Those programs could include, but would not be limited to, pregnancy counseling and support programs, prenatal and postnatal care, teenage parenting programs, and adoption. The department would provide to anyone who was interested a list of public and private agencies and organizations that provided programs contemplated by the bill.
