A SUMMARY OF HOUSE BILL 4066 AS INTRODUCED 2-2-93

The bill would amend the Revised Judicature Act to allow a corporation to be represented by a nonattorney employee when defending against a civil infraction issued for a traffic or parking violation. The corporate officer or employee would have to have personal knowledge of the facts in dispute, unless the person who had that personal knowledge was no longer employed by the company, in which case the representation could be made by that person's supervisor or by a corporate officer or member of the board of directors.
