House Bill 5260 (as reported without amendment)
Sponsor: Representative Nancy Cassis
House Committee: Tax Policy
Senate Committee: Finance

CONTENT

The bill would amend the Tax Tribunal Act to revise provisions that specify when a petition to invoke the jurisdiction of the Tax Tribunal is considered filed, in cases not involving property assessment disputes and in cases before the residential property and small claims division.

Under the Act, in assessment disputes, the Tax Tribunal's jurisdiction is invoked if a petition is filed by June 30 of the tax year involved. A petition is considered filed by June 30 if it is sent by certified mail on or before that date, except in the residential and small claims division. In that division, a petition is considered filed by June 30 if it is delivered in person or postmarked by first class mail on or before that date. In all other matters, jurisdiction is invoked when a party files a petition within 30 days after the final decision, ruling, determination, or order that the petitioner seeks to review.

Under the bill, in disputes other than assessment disputes, and except in the residential property and small claims division, a petition would be considered filed if it were sent by certified mail or delivered in person on or before the expiration of the period in which an appeal could be made. In the residential property and small claims division, a petition would be considered filed if it were postmarked by first-class mail or delivered in person on or before the expiration of the period in which an appeal could be made.

Further, a petition would have to be filed within 35 days after the final decision, ruling, determination, or order that a petitioner sought to review if the appeal involved Section 22(1) of the revenue Act. Section 22(1) allows a taxpayer aggrieved by an assessment, decision, or order of the Department of Treasury to appeal the contested portion of the assessment, decision, or order to the Tax Tribunal within 35 days after the assessment, decision, or order.
