This bill would require that at the party conventions one presidential elector be chose from each congressional district and that two electors be chosen at large. The candidate who would be elected from a congressional district in November would be the one who belonged to the political party whose candidates for president and vice president received the greatest number of votes in that congressional district. The at-large candidates elected would be, as now, those who belonged to the political party whose presidential and vice presidential candidates received the greatest number of votes statewide.

This requirement would have no fiscal impact on state or local units of government.
