The Revised School Code prohibits school districts from scheduling school on the Friday before Labor Day for FY 2001, FY 2002, and FY 2003 only. HB 4491 removes the sunset on this prohibition, effectively extending it indefinitely. Since schools simply make up the instructional time lost on the Friday before Labor Day, there is no impact on the number of total instructional days provided, and therefore no fiscal impact on schools or the state.
