Dear God, in this bewildering time, we come to You for guidance and comfort. Help us all understand and find meaning in the events of this past weekend. Be with the Ginotti family. Share Your grace and strength to help them through this difficult time. We ask for Your blessings upon Phil, that he may have the peace he so desperately wanted and found hard to find in life. God, we especially pray for Phil's stepdaughter and son; may they find comfort and pride in all the good things he did and stood for. Help co-workers, staff members, friends, and acquaintances find meaning and understanding and forgiveness in their hearts.

Now, as we go about this week of difficult business, let us remember the model of dignity, honesty, and forthrightness You have provided for us. Guide our actions and decisions that they might lead us with a sense of purpose, integrity, and fairness. In Your name we pray. Amen.

A resolution commemorating May 2001 as CPA Month in Michigan.

Whereas, It is in honor of The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountant's 100th anniversary that we commemorate May 2001 as CPA Month in Michigan. During this special observance, we encourage all Michigan citizens to recognize the dedication and integrity of Michigan CPAs; and

Whereas, Certified public accountants are trusted business advisors who enable people and organizations to shape their future. Combining insight with integrity, CPAs deliver value by communicating the total picture with clarity and objectivity; translate complex information into critical knowledge; anticipate and create opportunities; and design pathways that transform vision into reality; and

Whereas, The citizens of the state of Michigan benefit from the contributions of certified public accountants in both public and private volunteerism. Each year, certified public accountants volunteer their time to their communities by serving on professional, educational, and corporate advisory boards. During the busy tax season, volunteer CPAs provide answers to the public's tax questions. CPAs also volunteer each year to educate and inspire elementary, middle school, and high school students through public and private endeavors; and

Whereas, On behalf of young people, it is a pleasure to commend the certified public accountant educators who accept and meet the challenges of teaching the state's youth to become trusted financial advisors. Certified public accountants play a critical role in shaping the future of accounting through their contact with students and educators; and

Whereas, The 15,000-plus members of The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, a diversified, professional, member-driven organization celebrates its 100th anniversary as the state's premier resource for CPAs in education, government, industry, public accounting, and other related professions; and

Whereas, This special day presents an excellent opportunity for Michigan citizens to honor certified public accountants as the state's trusted advisors; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That we hereby commemorate May 2001 as CPA Month and express our support for the efforts that certified public accountants make each year as trusted financial advisors to Michigan's citizens; and be it further
