A SUMMARY OF SENATE BILL 419 AS PASSED BY THE SENATE 5-12-09

The bill would allow a 16-year-old to donate blood with parental consent.

Public Act 22 of 1971, which prescribes the age at which persons may donate their blood, allows a person 17 years of age or older to donate blood in a voluntary and noncompensatory blood program without the need for consent by a parent or legal guardian.

Senate Bill 419 would name Public Act 22 as "Jenna's Law" and would allow an individual who was 16 years of age to donate blood in a voluntary and noncompensatory blood program with his or her parent's or legal guardian's permission or authorization.
