The bill would amend the Michigan Vehicle Code to maintain the existing regulatory fees levied on various trucks, tractors, and other specified vehicles used for commercial or organizational purposes, by delaying the expiration of the fees from September 30, 2015, for four years, to September 30, 2019.

The bill also would delay by four years the sunset on fees administered by the Department of State that are deposited into the Transportation Administration Collection Fund (TACF), including fees for five-day temporary registrations ($10), 30- and 60-day permits ($10), expedited title fees ($5), fund-raising service fees ($10), graphic plate fees ($5), personalized plate service fees ($8 first month, $2 for each additional month), registration transaction fees ($5.75), registration transfer fees ($8), replacement plate fees ($5), and title service fees ($3).

Fees deposited into the TACF are used to defray administrative costs for the Department of State.
