SUMMARY:

Senate Bill 915 would amend two sections in the division of the Michigan Vehicle Code that governs the size, weight, and load of vehicles.

The bill would add “school bus” to the list of vehicles whose outer body width may not exceed 102 inches. It would also provide that, for a school bus, in addition to the existing list, an appurtenance of 6 inches or less beyond the 102 inches would not be a violation. (A person who violates these provisions is responsible for a civil infraction.)

Additionally, the bill would exempt school buses from seasonal restrictions on weight allowances on roads. The Code prescribes the maximum axle load allowable on roads, with those maximum axle loads reduced during the months of March, April, and May. The bill would add school buses to the list of vehicles exempt from those provisions (joining vehicles transporting agricultural commodities, and public utility vehicles under certain circumstances).

The bill would take effect 90 days after enactment.
